About Andi:

A small town southern girl from Tennessee, Andi decided to spread her wings and move to Chicago, IL. Initially working as a waitress, receptionist, or any odd job to pay the bills, she pursued a position as a part-time general office person in an apartment community more than 19 years ago. Little did she know her amazing Property Management Journey would lead her from Star Leasing Consultant, to Trainer, to Regional and National Marketing Director and finally NATIONAL SPEAKER! Andi shares her story and success nationally via speaking forums that are not only comical and entertaining but also educational. She has travelled throughout the United States to assist management teams on the road to success, and she is excited to share her Strategies of Success with the Savannah market!
